Study or work – 学习工作

Study (for Students) – 学习【中学生】

Do you work, or are you a student?

I'm a student right now, so I don't work

Where do you study?

I study at a public high school in the city. It's a pretty big school, and I've been going there since I started secondary school.

What subjects are you studying?

I'm studying a range of subjects like math, English, and science. This year, I'm really focusing on improving my grades in history and chemistry because they're a bit harder for me.

What about the environment at school?

The environment at school is mostly good, but it can get a little noisy sometimes, especially during breaks. We have some great teachers, though, who make learning really interesting.

What is your favourite place to study?

My favorite place to study is definitely my room because it's quiet and I can concentrate. Sometimes I go to the school library if I need extra resources for my assignments.

Do you prefer to study at home or in a library?

I prefer studying at home because I can take breaks whenever I need to. But if I need to do group work or research, I'll go to the library for better resources.

What part of your school do you like the most?

I really like the school garden; it's a nice place to relax between classes. The science lab is also great because we get to do a lot of hands-on experiments

Do you like your school?

Yes, I do like my school. The teachers are helpful, and I've made some good friends here, so it's a nice place to be.

Do you think your school is suitable for study?

I think my school is pretty good for studying, though it would be better if there were more quiet study spaces. The teachers are very supportive, which makes a big difference.

Is there anything that can be improved?

One thing that could be improved is the amount of homework we get—it can be overwhelming sometimes. It would also help if the classrooms were a bit bigger, as it feels crowded at times.

What do you usually do when you are at school?

When I'm at school, I spend most of my time in classes, but I also enjoy hanging out with my friends during lunch. After school, I usually stay behind to study or join my club activities.

How do you usually travel to the city where you study?

I take the bus to school every day, which takes about 30 minutes. Sometimes, my parents drive me if I'm running late.

What skills do you think help you study?

Time management is really important because it helps me stay organized with homework and projects. Also, note-taking helps me remember important information from lessons.

Do you prefer to study alone or with others?

I usually prefer studying alone because I can focus better that way. However, when it comes to group projects, working with others can be really helpful.

Do you prefer to study in the morning or the afternoon?

I prefer studying in the afternoon because I feel more awake then. In the morning,
it's hard for me to concentrate until I've had some time to wake up.

Who do you think helps you the most in your study?

My teachers help me a lot, especially when I don't understand something. My parents also encourage me to keep up with my studies, which motivates me.

Do you find it difficult to balance life and study?

It can be tough to balance schoolwork with other activities, especially during exam season. I try to manage my time well, but sometimes it feels like there aren't enough hours in the day.

Study (for Students) – 学习【大学生】

Do you work, or are you a student?

I'm a full-time university student, but I also have a part-time job to help cover my expenses.

What's your subject? / What do you study?

I'm majoring in business administration. I'm really interested in learning how companies operate and how to manage people effectively.

Why did you choose this subject?

I chose business administration because I've always been interested in how businesses run and the strategies behind successful companies. Plus, it offers a lot of career options after graduation.

Where do you study?

I study at a university in the city center. It's a big campus with a lot of facilities, so I enjoy spending time there.

What about the environment in the university?

The environment is quite vibrant and full of energy. There are always events and activities happening, which makes it a lively place to study.

Do you think your university is suitable for study?

Yes, it's a great place to study because the professors are knowledgeable, and there are plenty of resources. However, some lecture halls can get a bit crowded.

Is there anything that can be improved?

I think the university could improve by offering more quiet study areas, especially during exam season. Also, better support for students' mental health would be helpful.

How do you usually travel to the city where you study?

I usually take the subway, which is convenient and fast. If I'm in a rush, I sometimes use a ride-sharing app.

What skills do you think help you study?

Time management is key because university assignments can pile up quickly. I also find that good research skills help me with my coursework.

Do you prefer to study alone or with others?

I prefer to study alone for most subjects because I can concentrate better. But when it comes to preparing for group projects or presentations, studying with others is helpful.

Do you prefer to study in the morning or the afternoon?

I usually study in the afternoon because I'm not much of a morning person. In the afternoon, I feel more focused and productive.

Who do you think helps you the most in your study?

My professors and classmates help me a lot, especially when I need clarification on a topic. My family also supports me by encouraging me to stay motivated.

Do you find it difficult to balance life and study?

It can be difficult, especially with my part-time job and extracurricular activities. But I try to plan my time well, so I don't fall behind in my studies.

What would you like to do after graduation?

After graduation, I'd like to work in the business sector, maybe in marketing or management. I'm also considering doing a master's degree after gaining some work experience.

What's your future study plan?

I'm planning to focus on internships and practical experience before I graduate.

After that, I might pursue further studies depending on my career goals.

What is your favourite place to study?

My favorite place to study is the campus library because it's quiet and has all the resources I need. Sometimes, I also study at a café for a change of scenery.

Do you prefer to study at home or in a library?

I prefer to study in the library because I find it easier to concentrate there. At home, there are too many distractions.

What part of your school do you like the most?

I really like the student lounge because it's a great place to relax between classes.

The business faculty building is also impressive, with modern classrooms and study spaces.

I've always been interested in marketing because it combines creativity with strategy. Plus, it's a field that's constantly evolving, which keeps things exciting.

Who helps you the most at work?

My manager has been a huge help by guiding me through challenging projects.

My teammates are also great at offering support when things get busy.

Would you like to work with a lot of people?

I enjoy working with others, but I prefer smaller teams where collaboration feels more personal. Large teams can sometimes make communication more difficult.

How do you manage your time at work?

I usually create a to-do list at the start of the day and prioritize tasks based on deadlines. Time management tools like calendars and task trackers really help me stay on top of things.

Do you see yourself continuing to do this job in the future?

For now, I do see myself staying in this field because there's a lot of room for growth. However, I'm always open to exploring new opportunities that align with my skills.

Do you expect any changes in your job?

I expect the role to keep evolving, especially with the rise of new technologies. I think more automation and AI tools will become part of our daily workflow.

I enjoy the flexibility of working from home because it saves time on commuting.

But I also appreciate the social aspect of going into the office, so a balance of both works best for me.

brainstorming with others leads to better ideas. But for focused tasks, I prefer working alone to avoid distractions.

Do you have a favourite room?

Yes, my bedroom is my favorite room. It's where I can relax, have some privacy, and feel most comfortable.

Which room do you like the most?

I like the kitchen the most because I enjoy cooking and trying out new recipes. It's also where we gather as a family to eat and chat.

Which is the most comfortable room?

The most comfortable room is definitely the living room. It's where we have the softest furniture and where everyone gathers to relax.

What did you enjoy doing at home when you were a child?

Would you like to spend more time staying at home?

I wouldn't mind spending more time at home, especially when I feel like I need a break. But I also enjoy being active and going out, so a balance works best for me.

willing to help out if you need something.

Part 1

Food

1. Do you have favorite food?

Yes, I do. I'd say my favorite food is noodles, especially the kind you can find in local restaurants. What I like most about noodles is that they're very versatile. You can have them in soup, stir-fried, or with different toppings, so I never really get bored of them. Also, they remind me of home, so there's a bit of an emotional connection as well.

2. Is there any food you don't like?

Yes, there is. I'm not a big fan of very spicy food. It's not that I can't eat it at all, but if a dish is too spicy, it kind of ruins the whole experience for me. I can't really taste the flavor of the food, and I end up focusing on how uncomfortable it feels instead of enjoying the meal.

Day off

1. When was the last time you had a few days off?

The last time I had a few days off was a couple of months ago, during a short holiday. I didn't travel very far. Most of the time, I just stayed at home and tried to slow down a bit. I caught up on sleep, watched some shows, and basically gave myself a break from my usual routine.

2. Do you usually spend your days off with your parents or with your friends?

It really depends on the situation. If it's a longer break, I tend to spend more time with my parents, because we don't get to see each other that often. But if it's just a single day off, I usually meet up with friends, maybe grab a meal together or just hang out and chat.

3. What would you like to do if you had a day off tomorrow?

If I had a day off tomorrow, I'd probably keep things simple. I'd like to sleep in, go out for a nice meal, and maybe take a walk to clear my head. I wouldn't plan anything too packed. For me, a good day off is more about relaxing and recharging than doing something special.

Pets and Animals

1. Do you like animals?

Yes, I do. I wouldn't say I'm a huge animal lover, but I generally enjoy being around animals. They make people feel more relaxed, and sometimes just watching them can be quite comforting, especially after a long day.

2. What's your favourite animal?

My favourite animal is probably dogs. What I like most about dogs is that they're very loyal and easy to connect with. They seem to understand human emotions quite well, and being with a dog usually puts me in a better mood.

3. Did you want to keep a pet when you were young?

Yes, I did. When I was young, I really wanted to have a pet, especially a dog. However, my parents were quite busy, and they didn't think we had enough time or energy to take proper care of an animal, so it never really happened.

4. Where do you prefer to keep your pet? indoors or outdoors?

I personally prefer to keep pets indoors. For one thing, it's easier to take care of them and keep an eye on their health. Also, pets are more like family members nowadays, so I feel they should share the living space with us instead of being left outside.

5. What's the most popular animal in China?

I'd say dogs are probably the most popular animals in China nowadays. More and more people are keeping dogs as pets, especially in cities. They're seen not only as companions but also as part of the family, which explains why pet-related services have become so common.

Fix things

1. Can you fix things?

To be honest, I'm not very good at fixing things. I can handle some simple problems, like tightening a screw or changing a light bulb, but when it comes to more complicated issues, I usually need some help.

2. Did anybody teach you how to fix things when you were a child?

Not really. When I was a child, no one taught me how to fix things in a systematic way. Most of the time, my parents preferred to fix things themselves or ask a professional to do it, so I didn't get many chances to learn.

3. Do you think it is necessary for people to learn to fix things?

Yes, I do think it's necessary to some extent. Learning to fix basic things can save time and money, and it also makes people more independent. Even if you're not an expert, knowing how to deal with small problems can be very practical in daily life.

4. What do you do when a thing is broken and cannot be fixed?

If something is broken and can't be fixed, I usually stop using it and consider replacing it. Before throwing it away, I try to see if it can be recycled or reused in some way. If not, I'll just get rid of it and move on.

Sports team

1. Have you ever been part of a sports team?

Yes, I have, but only at school. When I was a student, I was part of a basketball team for a short time. I wouldn't say I was very good at it, but I really enjoyed the team atmosphere. Training and playing together helped me learn how to cooperate with others.

2. Do you have a team to support?

Yes, I do. I support a sports team, but I wouldn't call myself a hardcore fan. I usually follow their major games and check the results from time to time. Supporting a team makes watching sports more interesting and gives me something to talk about with friends.

Reading

1. Have you read any books lately?

Yes, I have. Recently, I've been reading a few non-fiction books in my spare time. I don't read for very long each day, but I try to read a little before going to bed, which helps me relax.

2. Do you prefer speed reading or thoughtful reading?

I personally prefer thoughtful reading. I like to take my time and really understand what the writer is trying to say. For me, reading is more about quality than speed.

3. Why do some people like speed reading?

I think some people like speed reading because it saves time. They may have a lot of information to go through, especially for work or study, so speed reading helps them get the main ideas quickly.

Keys

1. Do you always bring a lot of keys with you?

No, not really. I try to keep my keychain simple. I usually only carry the keys that I actually need, like my house key, so it's easier to manage.

2. Have you ever lost your keys?

Yes, I have, and it was quite stressful. I spent a long time looking for them and felt really annoyed. Since then, I've been more careful about where I put my keys.

3. Do you often forget the keys and lock yourself out?

Not very often, but it has happened once or twice. After that, I developed a habit of checking my keys before leaving home, which has helped a lot.

4. Do you think it's a good idea to leave your keys with a neighbour?

Yes, I think it can be a good idea, as long as you trust your neighbour. It can be very helpful in emergencies, especially if you accidentally lock yourself out.

Morning time

1. Do you like getting up early in the morning?

It depends. On weekdays, I don't really enjoy getting up early because I feel quite tired. But if I don't have much pressure, I actually like early mornings because they're quiet and peaceful.

2. What do you usually do in the morning?

In the morning, I usually get ready for the day, have a simple breakfast, and check my phone for messages or news. After that, I head out to work or start my daily tasks.

3. What did you do in the morning when you were little? Why?

When I was little, my mornings were quite simple. I usually got up, had breakfast, and then went to school. Everything was arranged by my parents, so I didn't have to think too much.

4. Are there any differences between what you do in the morning now and what you did in the past?

Yes, definitely. Now my mornings are more rushed and stressful, while in the past they were much more relaxed. I also have more responsibilities now, so I need to plan my time better.

5. Do you spend your mornings doing the same things on weekends and weekdays? Why?

No, not really. On weekdays, my mornings are quite fixed because of work. On weekends, I prefer to slow down, sleep a bit longer, and do things more casually, since I don't have a tight schedule.

Gifts

1. Have you ever sent handmade gifts to others?

Yes, I have, but not very often. I've made some simple handmade gifts, like cards or small crafts, mainly for close friends. I think handmade gifts feel more personal, even if they're not very professional.

2. Have you ever received a great gift?

Yes, I have. One of the best gifts I've received was something I really needed at the time. It wasn't very expensive, but it showed that the person understood me well, which made it special.

3. What do you consider when choosing a gift?

When choosing a gift, I mainly think about the person's interests and needs. I also consider the occasion and my budget. For me, a suitable gift is more important than an expensive one.

4. Do you think you are good at choosing gifts?

I'd say I'm okay at it, but not especially good. I usually spend some time thinking and comparing options, but I still feel a bit unsure sometimes. I guess I'm getting better with experience.

5. What gift have you received recently?

Recently, I received a small but thoughtful gift from a friend. It was something practical that I can use in my daily life. Even though it was simple, it made me feel appreciated.

Walking

1. Do you walk a lot?

Yes, I do walk quite a lot in my daily life. I usually walk when I go to nearby places, and sometimes I take a walk just to relax and clear my mind.

2. Did you often go outside to have a walk when you were a child?

Yes, I did. When I was a child, I often went outside to walk or play with friends, especially after dinner. It was a simple way to relax, and there weren't many electronic devices back then.

3. Why do people like to walk in parks?

I think people like walking in parks because the environment is more pleasant. There's more fresh air and greenery, which helps people relax and escape from the noise of the city for a while.

4. Where would you like to take a long walk if you had the chance?

If I had the chance, I'd like to take a long walk along the seaside or by a river. I enjoy places where I can walk at my own pace and enjoy the view without feeling rushed.

5. Where did you go for a walk lately?

Lately, I've been taking walks around my neighbourhood. There's a small park nearby, and I sometimes go there in the evening to stretch my legs and unwind after a busy day.

Hobbies

1. Do you have any hobbies?

Yes, I do. In my free time, I enjoy doing a few simple things, like listening to music and watching shows. These hobbies help me relax and take my mind off work.

2. Did you have any hobbies when you were a child?

Yes, I did. When I was a child, I liked playing outside with friends and watching cartoons. I didn't really call them hobbies back then, but I spent a lot of time doing those things

3. Do you have a hobby that you've had since childhood?

Yes, I do. I've enjoyed listening to music since I was young. Even though my taste in music has changed over time, listening to music has always been a part of my daily life.

4. Do you have the same hobbies as your family members?

Some of them are the same, but not all. For example, my family members and I all enjoy watching TV together, but we also have our own interests. I think that's quite normal in most families.

Dreams

1. Can you remember the dreams you had?

Sometimes I can, but not very clearly. I usually remember my dreams right after I wake up, but they fade quite quickly. After a while, I can only remember a few random scenes.

2. Do you share your dreams with others?

Not very often. I only share my dreams with close friends if they're interesting or unusual. Most of the time, I just keep them to myself because they don't really make much sense.

3. Do you think dreams have special meanings?

I'm not completely sure, but I think dreams can sometimes reflect our feelings or stress in real life. I don't believe every dream has a special meaning, but some of them might be connected to what we're experiencing.

4. Do you want to make your dreams come true?

Yes, of course. I think having dreams gives people motivation and direction.

Even if not all of them come true, working towards them can still be meaningful and rewarding.

Part2&3

令你骄傲的家人

Part 2

Describe a family member who you are proud of.

You should say:

who this person is

how often you spend time together

what she/he has done to make you feel proud and explain why you are proud of him/her.

Answer

I'd like to talk about my mother, who is the family member I feel most proud of. She has always played an important role in my life, not only as a parent but also as someone I truly respect.

We don't spend time together every day because we're both busy, but we usually see each other on weekends or during family gatherings. Even when we're not together, we stay in touch through phone calls and messages.

What makes me feel proud of her is her attitude towards life. She has faced many difficulties, especially balancing work and family, but she never complains. Instead, she always stays calm and tries to solve problems step by step. She has also been very supportive of my choices, even when they were not the easiest or safest ones.

I'm proud of her because she sets a good example for me. She shows me what responsibility, patience, and resilience really mean. Her actions have influenced the way I deal with challenges in my own life.

Part 3

1. When was the last time that you felt proud of yourself ?

The last time I felt proud of myself was when I managed to overcome a personal challenge that required long-term effort. It wasn't something dramatic, but it took a lot of self-discipline and persistence. Looking back, what made me proud wasn't the final result, but the fact that I stayed committed even when progress was slow. In my opinion, being able to push through difficulties and stay responsible for one's own goals is something worth feeling proud of.

2. What would children do to make their parents proud ?

In general, children can make their parents proud by showing responsibility and independence. This doesn't necessarily mean achieving outstanding academic results. In many cases, parents care more about their children's attitude, such as being honest, hardworking, and willing to take responsibility for their actions. When children show respect to others and make sensible decisions, parents are more likely to feel proud of them.

3. What did you do to make your parents proud when you were young ?

When I was young, the main thing I did to make my parents proud was trying to behave well and take school seriously. I followed rules, completed my homework on time, and didn't cause them much trouble. Although these actions may seem ordinary, they showed that I was responsible for my role as a student. From my parents' perspective, consistency and good behaviour were more important than short-term achievements.

4. What advantages of yours make you proud?

One advantage that makes me feel proud is my ability to stay calm under pressure. In many situations, instead of panicking, I tend to analyse the problem and look for practical solutions. This helps me deal with challenges more effectively, both in work and in daily life. I believe this quality has been developed over time, and it allows me to handle responsibilities with more confidence.

想见的名人

Part 2

Describe a famous person you would like to meet

You should say:

Who he/she is

How you knew him/her

How/where you would like to meet him/her

And explain why you would like to meet him/her

Answer

I'd like to talk about a famous person I would like to meet, who is Jack Ma, the founder of Alibaba. He is well known in China and around the world as a successful entrepreneur.

I first learned about him through news reports and interviews many years ago, especially when Alibaba was growing rapidly. What impressed me most was not only his business success, but also the way he talked about failure and perseverance.

If I had the chance, I would like to meet him at a public talk or a small seminar rather than a formal business setting. I think that kind of environment would allow for more relaxed and meaningful communication.

I would like to meet him because his life experience is very inspiring. He failed many times before becoming successful, but he never gave up. I believe talking to someone like him would help me gain a different perspective on success and personal growth.

Part 3

1. What are the advantages and disadvantages of being a famous child ?

In general, being a famous child has both advantages and disadvantages. On the positive side, famous children often have access to better resources, such as professional training and financial support, which can help them develop their skills more quickly. However, there are also clear downsides. They may face heavy pressure from public expectations and lose their privacy at a very young age. This can affect their emotional development and mental health in the long run.

2. What can today's children do to become famous?

Nowadays, children have more ways to become famous than in the past. Many of them use social media platforms to share their talents, such as singing, dancing, or creating videos. In addition, some children gain attention through competitions or talent shows. However, becoming famous often requires not only ability, but also guidance from adults and responsible management, especially at a young age.

3. What can children do with their fame?

If managed properly, children can use their fame in positive ways. For example, they can inspire others by setting a good example or raise awareness about meaningful social issues. At the same time, it is important that their fame does not interfere with their education or normal childhood. Fame should be treated as a tool, not the main goal of their development.

4. Do people become famous because of their talent ?

Talent is certainly an important factor, but it is not the only reason people become famous. In many cases, timing, opportunity, and media exposure also play a significant role. Some people become famous because they meet public demand at the right moment, even if their talent is not exceptional. Therefore, fame is often the result of a combination of talent and external factors.

鼓励你保护自然的人

Part 2

Describe a person who encouraged you to protect the nature.

You should say:
Who this person is
How you knew this person
What he/she said or did to encourage you
And explain how you felt about it.

Answer

I'd like to talk about one of my high school teachers, who had a big influence on the way I look at nature.

I got to know him when I was around sixteen. He wasn't an environmental expert, but he was very passionate about simple lifestyle choices that reduce harm to the environment.

What impressed me most was that he didn't just talk about protecting nature in theory. For example, he encouraged us to use reusable bottles, reduce food waste, and avoid unnecessary consumption. He also organised outdoor activities, such as hiking and cleaning up local parks, which helped us build a stronger connection with nature.

I felt inspired by his actions rather than his words. He made environmental protection feel practical and achievable, not something distant or idealistic. That's why I'm proud to say he played an important role in shaping my awareness of protecting nature.

常做计划的人

Part 2

Describe a person who makes plans a lot
You should say:
Who he/she is
How you knew him/her
What plans he/she makes
And explain how you feel about this person

Answer

I'd like to describe one of my close friends, who is a very organised and plan-oriented person. I got to know him when we were in university, and since then, I've noticed that planning plays a central role in his life. He believes that having clear plans helps him feel more confident and in control.

He makes plans for almost everything, including his daily schedule, career development, and even holidays. For example, he usually sets weekly goals, writes down long-term career plans, and prepares backup options in case things don't go as expected. Before any trip, he researches transportation, accommodation, and possible risks in advance.

Personally, I admire his ability to stay organised and focused. Although I sometimes feel his lifestyle is a bit stressful, his planning habit has influenced me in a positive way. It reminds me that good preparation often leads to better results.

Part 3

1. Do you think it's important to plan ahead?

Yes, I believe planning ahead is important in many aspects of life. It helps people set clear goals, manage their time more efficiently, and reduce uncertainty. When people plan in advance, they are more likely to make rational decisions and avoid unnecessary stress. However, flexibility is also essential, as unexpected situations can always arise.

2. Do you think children should plan their future careers?

I think children can start thinking about their future careers, but detailed planning may be too early. At a young age, children are still exploring their interests and abilities. Instead of fixed career plans, they should focus on developing skills, gaining experience, and understanding different possibilities. Career planning can become more specific as they grow older.

3. Should children ask their teachers or parents for advice when making plans ?

Yes, I think seeking advice from teachers and parents is very helpful. Teachers can provide guidance based on education and academic performance, while parents often offer practical advice based on life experience. However, children should also be encouraged to think independently and make final decisions that suit their own goals and personalities.

喜欢画画的孩子

Part 2

Describe a child you know who likes drawing very much

You should say:

How you knew him/her

What he/she is like

How often he/she draws

And explain why you think he/she likes drawing

Answer

I'd like to talk about a child I know who is very fond of drawing. He is my cousin's son, and I got to know him quite well through family gatherings. He is a quiet and patient child, and he often prefers staying alone rather than playing noisy games. He is quite observant and tends to notice small details in his surroundings, which I think is closely related to his interest in drawing. He draws almost every day, especially after school or during weekends. Sometimes he can sit quietly for over an hour just focusing on his drawings.

He usually draws animals, cartoons, and scenes from his daily life. I think he likes drawing because it allows him to express himself freely. Drawing helps him relax and turn his imagination into something visible. It also gives him a sense of achievement when he finishes a piece of work.

Part 3

1. What is the right age for a child to learn drawing?

I believe there is no fixed right age, but early childhood is a suitable time to start. Young children naturally enjoy drawing as a form of play and self-expression. At this stage, learning should focus on creativity rather than technique. Formal training can be introduced gradually as children grow older and develop better control and concentration.

2. Why do most children draw more often than adults do?

One reason is that children have fewer responsibilities and more free time. More importantly, children are less afraid of making mistakes and being judged. For them, drawing is a natural way to express emotions and imagination. In contrast, adults often focus on practicality and results, which may reduce their willingness to draw freely.

3. Why do some people visit galleries or museums instead of viewing artworks online?

Visiting galleries or museums offers a more immersive experience. People can see the real size, texture, and details of artworks, which are often lost online. In addition, the atmosphere of these places allows visitors to focus and reflect more deeply, creating a stronger emotional connection with the artworks.

4. Do you think galleries and museums should be free of charge?

I think it depends on the situation. Free entry can make art more accessible to the public and encourage cultural education. However, museums also need funding to maintain collections and improve services. A balanced approach, such as free days or discounted tickets for students, may be a practical solution.

5. How do artworks inspire people?

Artworks can inspire people by offering new perspectives and emotional experiences. They may encourage viewers to reflect on life, society, or personal values. In some cases, art also stimulates creativity and motivates people to express themselves in different ways, whether through art or other forms.

家里面放松的地方

Part 2

Describe your favorite place in your house where you can relax

You should say:

Where it is

What it is like

What you enjoy doing there

And explain why you feel relaxed at this place

Answer

My favorite place in my house to relax is a small corner in my bedroom, right next to the window. It's a quiet and comfortable space with a desk, a chair, and a bookshelf nearby. The lighting there is soft, and during the daytime, natural light comes in through the window, which makes the whole area feel warm and calm.

I usually read books, listen to music, or simply sit there and think. Sometimes I also enjoy having a cup of tea while watching people or cars pass by outside. It helps me slow down and clear my mind.

I feel relaxed in this place because it's private and free from distractions. Being away from noise and screens allows me to recharge mentally. It's a space where I can truly be alone with my thoughts.

Part 3

1. Why is it difficult for some people to relax?

For many people, relaxation is difficult because of work pressure and constant responsibilities. In modern society, people are often connected to their jobs through digital devices, which makes it hard to switch off mentally. In addition, some people feel guilty when they are not being productive, so they struggle to truly relax.

2. What are the benefits of doing exercise?

Exercise provides both physical and mental benefits. Physically, it improves fitness, strengthens the body, and helps prevent health problems. Mentally, exercise reduces stress, improves mood, and increases energy levels. Regular physical activity also helps people develop better sleep habits.

3. Do people in your country exercise after work?

Yes, many people do, especially in cities. Some people go to the gym, while others prefer outdoor activities such as jogging or walking in parks. However, due to long working hours, not everyone is able to exercise regularly after work.

4. What is the place where people spend most of their time at home?

I think most people spend the majority of their time in the living room or bedroom. The living room is often used for relaxing, watching TV, and spending time with family, while the bedroom is a private space for rest and sleep. The choice usually depends on personal lifestyle and family habits.

5. Do you think there should be classes for training young people and children how to relax?

Yes, I think such classes could be beneficial. Many young people face academic pressure from an early age, and learning how to manage stress is increasingly important. These classes could teach techniques such as time management, mindfulness, and healthy lifestyle habits, which may help students maintain long-term well-being.

6. Which is more important, mental relaxation or physical relaxation?

In my opinion, mental relaxation is slightly more important. Physical relaxation helps reduce tiredness, but mental stress can affect a person's overall health and decision-making. Without mental relaxation, physical rest may not be fully effective. Ideally, both should be balanced to achieve true relaxation.

外国的短期停留

Part 2

Describe a foreign country you would like to stay or work for a short period of time

You should say:

Which country it is

Where you got to know this country

What you will do there and explain why you will stay or work there just for a short period of time

Answer

I would like to talk about Japan as a foreign country where I'd like to stay or work for a short period of time.

I first got to know Japan through films, documentaries, and social media. Later on, I learned more about its culture, working style, and daily life from travel programmes and personal blogs shared by people who have lived there.

If I had the chance to stay there, I would like to experience daily life and work culture rather than simply travel. I would explore local neighbourhoods, try traditional food, and possibly take part in a short-term job or cultural exchange programme. I'm also interested in observing how people manage work-life balance in such an efficient society.

I would only choose to stay or work there for a short period of time because I believe living abroad long-term can be challenging. Language barriers, cultural differences, and work pressure may become stressful over time. A short stay would allow me to gain valuable experience without feeling overwhelmed.

Part 3

1. Why do people sometimes go to other cities or other countries to travel?

People travel to other cities or countries for a variety of reasons. One major reason is to experience different cultures, lifestyles, and traditions, which helps broaden their perspectives. Travel also allows people to take a break from daily routines and reduce stress. In addition, some people travel to learn new skills, attend events, or explore career opportunities. Overall, travelling provides both personal enjoyment and opportunities for self-development.

令人失望的电影

Part 2

Describe a movie that you watched recently and you felt disappointed about. You should say:

what it was about

when it was

why you decided to watch it and explain why you felt disappointed about it.

Answer

I'd like to talk about a movie I watched recently that left me quite disappointed. It was a science fiction film about a future world where technology completely controls people's lives.

I watched it a few weeks ago at home on an online streaming platform. I decided to watch it mainly because it had a strong cast and the trailer looked very impressive. Many people online also described it as a thought-provoking movie.

However, after watching it, I felt disappointed for several reasons. Although the concept was interesting, the storyline was poorly developed and difficult to follow. Some scenes felt unnecessary, and the characters were not well explained, which made it hard to connect with them emotionally. In addition, the ending was quite rushed and failed to leave a strong impression.

Overall, I felt the movie focused too much on visual effects and neglected storytelling. As a result, it didn't live up to my expectations.

Part 3

1. Do you believe movie reviews?

I believe movie reviews can be helpful, but they should not be trusted completely. Reviews often reflect personal opinions and preferences, which may differ from individual viewers' tastes. However, reading multiple reviews can provide a general idea of a film's strengths and weaknesses and help people decide whether it is worth watching.

2. What are the difficult types of films in your country?

In my country, there is a wide variety of film genres. Popular types include comedies, romantic films, action movies, and family-oriented films. In recent years, realistic films focusing on social issues have also gained attention. This diversity allows audiences of different ages and backgrounds to find films that suit their interests.

3. Are historical films popular in your country? Why?

Yes, historical films are quite popular in my country. One reason is that they help people learn about history in an engaging way. These films often combine education with entertainment, making historical events easier to understand. In addition, historical films can strengthen cultural identity and national pride.

4. Do you think films with famous actors or actresses are more likely to become successful films?

Films with famous actors are often more likely to attract attention at the beginning. Well-known actors can bring a large fan base and increase box office potential. However, long-term success still depends on factors such as storyline, directing, and overall quality. Star power alone cannot guarantee a successful film.

5. Should the director pay a lot of money to famous actors?

I think it depends on the situation. Paying famous actors high salaries can help attract audiences and investors. However, if the budget is too heavily focused on actors' fees, it may affect other aspects of production, such as special effects or script development. A balanced budget is essential for producing high-quality films.

完美的工作

Part 2

Describe your perfect job

You should say:

what it is

Where you heard about it from

What you need to learn to get the job

And explain why you think it is your perfect job

Answer

My perfect job would be working as an education consultant who helps students plan their learning paths and future development.

I first learned about this kind of job through experienced teachers and online articles discussing modern education systems. Over time, I realised that this role combines teaching, communication, and long-term planning, which really appeals to me.

To get this job, I would need to develop strong communication skills, a solid understanding of education systems, and the ability to analyse students' needs. In addition, learning how to give professional guidance and staying updated with educational trends would be essential.

I consider this my perfect job because it allows me to make a meaningful impact on others while continuing to grow professionally. It also offers a sense of purpose, flexibility, and long-term career satisfaction rather than just financial rewards.

Part 3

1. What jobs do children want to do when they grow up?

Children often want to do jobs that they find exciting or admirable. Common examples include doctors, teachers, police officers, athletes, and entertainers. These jobs are usually highly visible in daily life or media, and children tend to associate them with success, respect, or helping others.

2. What should people consider when choosing jobs?

When choosing a job, people should consider several factors, including personal interests, skills, work-life balance, and long-term career prospects. Job satisfaction often depends on whether the work aligns with a person's values and strengths. Practical factors such as job stability and working environment should also be taken into account.

3. Is salary the main reason people choose a certain job?

Salary is an important factor, but it is not always the main reason. While financial security is necessary, many people also value job satisfaction, personal growth, and a sense of achievement. In the long run, a job that offers meaning and balance may be more sustainable than one that is only well-paid.

生活中离不开的东西

Part 2

Describe something that you can't live without(not a computer/phone)
you should say:

What it is

What you do with it

How it helps you in your life

And explain why you can't live without it

Answer

One thing that I can't live without is a notebook that I use almost every day.

I mainly use it to write down my plans, ideas, and daily reflections. I also use it to organise my tasks and record important thoughts that come to mind. Writing things down helps me stay focused and clear-headed.

This notebook helps me manage my time better and reduces stress. Instead of keeping everything in my head, I can put my thoughts on paper and deal with them one by one. It also allows me to reflect on my experiences and improve myself over time.

I feel I can't live without it because it brings a sense of control and order to my life. It helps me stay organised, calm, and productive, especially when life becomes busy or overwhelming.

Part 3

1. Why are children attracted to new things, such as electronics?

Children are attracted to new things because they are naturally curious. New products often offer bright colours, sounds, and interactive features that easily catch children's attention. In addition, children enjoy exploring unfamiliar experiences, which makes new items especially appealing.

2. Why do some grown-ups hate to throw out old things, such as clothes?

Some adults dislike throwing out old things because of emotional attachment. Certain items may remind them of important memories or past experiences. Others may feel that keeping old things is practical, as they believe these items could still be useful in the future.

3. Is the way people buy things affected? How?

Yes, the way people buy things has been greatly affected in recent years. Online shopping and social media have made purchasing faster and more convenient. As a result, people are more influenced by online reviews, advertisements, and recommendations than before.

4. What do you think influences people to buy new things?

People are influenced by a combination of practical needs and external factors. Advertising, social trends, and peer pressure can strongly affect purchasing decisions. At the same time, personal preferences and the desire for a better lifestyle also play important roles.

5. Why do all children like toys?

Toys help children learn and explore the world in an enjoyable way. Through playing with toys, children can develop imagination, creativity, and social skills. Toys also provide comfort and entertainment, which is why they are so attractive to children.

6. Do you think it is good for a child to always take his or her favourite toy with them?

In some cases, it can be helpful, especially for younger children. A favourite toy can give children a sense of security and emotional comfort. However, if a child becomes overly dependent on it, parents may need to encourage independence gradually.

想拥有的科技产品

Part 2

Describe a piece of technology (not a phone) that you would like to own

You should say:

What it is

How much it costs

What you will use it for

And explain why you would like to own it

Answer

A piece of technology that I would really like to own is an e-reader, such as a Kindle.

I learned about this product mainly from friends and online reviews. Many people recommend it as a convenient tool for reading, especially for those who read frequently.

The cost of an e-reader is usually around a few hundred dollars, depending on the model. Although it is not cheap, I think it is reasonably priced considering its functions and long-term use.

I would mainly use it for reading books, especially novels and non-fiction. Compared with paper books, an e-reader allows me to carry thousands of books at the same time, which is very useful when travelling or commuting.

I would like to own this technology because it makes reading more convenient and efficient. It also reduces eye strain compared with reading on a phone or computer screen. Overall, it would help me develop better reading habits and enjoy reading more often.

Part 3

1. What are the differences between the technology of the past and that of today?

There are significant differences between the technology of the past and that of today. In the past, technology was often simpler and focused mainly on basic functions. Today's technology is more advanced, faster, and more integrated into daily life. Modern technology also emphasises convenience, efficiency, and user experience, while older technology was usually less flexible and more limited in function.

App/程序

Part 2

Describe a program or app on your computer or phone

You should say:

What it is

When/how you use it

Where you found it

And explain how you feel about it

Answer

One program that I use almost every day is Notion. I mainly use it to organize my work and personal life.

I usually use it when I'm planning my lessons, writing notes, or keeping track of my daily tasks. For example, I create different pages for teaching plans, student feedback, and even my personal goals.

I first found this app through a recommendation from a colleague, who said it was very helpful for people who like things to be well-organized.

I feel very positive about this app because it helps me think more clearly and work more efficiently. When everything is written down in one place, I feel less stressed and more in control of my time.

Part 3

1. What are the differences between old and young people when using apps?

Young people tend to use apps more frequently and are more willing to try new ones. They usually learn how to use an app very quickly and focus more on entertainment or social functions. Older people, on the other hand, prefer practical apps, such as payment or health-related apps, and they may need more time to get used to new technology.

2. Why do some people not like using apps?

One main reason is that some people find apps too complicated. They may feel confused by frequent updates or too many functions. Another reason is privacy concerns. Some people worry that apps collect too much personal information, so they prefer traditional ways of doing things.

最近读过的故事

Part 2

Describe a story(e.g. a fairy tale, etc.) you have read recently.

You should say:

What it is about

When you read it

Whether you liked it

And explain what you have learned from it.

Answer

A story that I read recently is The Little Prince.

It is about a young prince who travels from planet to planet and meets different adults, each representing a certain way of thinking.

I read this story a few months ago when I wanted something relaxing but meaningful to read before bed.

I really liked this story because it looks simple on the surface, but it actually talks about deep ideas such as love, responsibility, and loneliness.

What I've learned from this story is that adults often focus too much on numbers and rules, while children see the world in a more honest and emotional way. It reminds me to slow down and pay attention to what truly matters in life.

Part 3

1. Why do most children like listening to stories before bedtime?

Most children enjoy listening to stories before bedtime because it helps them relax both mentally and emotionally. After a busy day filled with activities and stimulation, stories create a calm and predictable routine, which makes children feel safe and comfortable.

In addition, stories often stimulate imagination, allowing children to enter a fantasy world that is separate from their daily life. This helps them temporarily forget about stress or worries. Moreover, when stories are told by parents, they also strengthen the emotional bond between parents and children, which makes bedtime a positive and enjoyable experience.

2. Is a good storyline important for a movie?

Yes, a good storyline is essential for a successful movie. A strong storyline provides structure and direction, helping the audience understand the characters' motivations and emotional development.

Even if a movie has impressive special effects or famous actors, without a solid story, it is difficult to keep viewers engaged for a long time. A well-developed storyline also makes a film more meaningful and memorable, allowing audiences to reflect on the message or theme long after the movie ends.

3. Do you think films with many celebrities are more likely to be popular?

Films with many celebrities are often more popular at the beginning, because well-known actors naturally attract public attention and bring a large fan base. This can increase ticket sales in the early stages of a film's release.

However, popularity based only on celebrity appeal is usually short-lived. If the storyline, acting, or overall quality is weak, audiences may feel disappointed. In the long run, a film becomes truly popular only when it combines star power with a strong story and high production quality.

4. What films are popular in China right now?

Currently, films with realistic themes are quite popular in China, especially those that reflect social issues or everyday life. Audiences tend to connect more deeply with stories that feel familiar and emotionally relatable.

At the same time, animated films and movies based on traditional Chinese culture have also gained popularity. These films often combine modern storytelling techniques with cultural elements, which appeal to both younger audiences and families.

很多人一起笑的场合

Part 2

Describe an occasion when many people laughed together.

You should say:

When it happened

Where it happened

Who you were with What happened

And explain why many people were laughing (or smiling) together.

Answer

I would like to talk about a team dinner I attended last year after finishing a long project at work. It happened in the evening at a local restaurant near our office.

I was with my colleagues, including my team members and our manager. During the dinner, one of my coworkers shared a story about a mistake he made during an important presentation. Instead of being serious, he described it in a very humorous way and even laughed at himself.

As the story went on, more people started adding their own funny experiences, and the whole atmosphere became very relaxed. Almost everyone at the table was laughing at the same time.

I think many people laughed together because the moment allowed us to release stress after hard work. We felt comfortable with each other, and the shared sense of humor helped us bond as a team.

Part 3

1. Why do people laugh in their daily lives?

People laugh in their daily lives mainly because laughter is a natural way to express positive emotions such as happiness, relief, or amusement. It helps people respond to humorous situations and makes daily interactions more enjoyable.

In addition, laughter often works as a social signal. When people laugh together, it shows friendliness and openness, which can reduce tension and make communication smoother. In this sense, laughter is not only about humor but also about maintaining healthy social relationships.

2. Do you think people laugh less now than in the past? Why or why not?

I believe people may laugh less in certain situations today compared with the past, mainly due to increased stress in modern life. Fast-paced work environments and heavy responsibilities can reduce opportunities for relaxed social interactions.

However, on the other hand, people now have more access to entertainment through social media, videos, and online content. These platforms provide new ways for people to experience humor. So while the form of laughter may have changed, it does not necessarily mean that people laugh significantly less overall.

3. How does laughter help people to connect with each other?

Laughter helps people connect by creating a sense of shared experience. When people laugh together, they feel emotionally closer and more comfortable with each other. Moreover, laughter can break down social barriers. It reduces awkwardness, especially among strangers, and makes communication feel more natural. In many cases, people who laugh together are more likely to trust each other, which strengthens both personal and professional relationships.

4. In what situations is laughter considered inappropriate in your culture?

In my culture, laughter is generally considered inappropriate in serious or formal situations, such as funerals, important meetings, or moments of public apology. In these contexts, laughter may be seen as a sign of disrespect or a lack of empathy. Additionally, laughing at someone else's mistakes or misfortune is often viewed negatively. People are expected to show understanding and emotional sensitivity rather than humor in such situations.

禁用手机的场合

Part 2

Describe an occasion when you were not allowed to use your mobile phone. You should say:

when it was

where it happened

why you were not allowed to use your phone and explain how you felt about it.

Answer

I would like to describe an occasion when I was not allowed to use my mobile phone during an important exam at university. It happened a few years ago in a large examination hall on campus.

Before the exam started, the invigilator clearly announced that all mobile phones had to be turned off and placed in a bag at the front of the room. This rule was strictly enforced to prevent cheating and ensure fairness.

At first, I felt slightly uncomfortable and anxious because I was used to checking my phone frequently. However, as the exam went on, I became more focused and less distracted. In the end, I realized that staying away from my phone actually helped me concentrate better on the task.

Part 3

1. How do young and old people use mobile phones differently?

Young people tend to use mobile phones mainly for social interaction and entertainment. They frequently use social media apps, messaging platforms, and short videos to stay connected with friends and follow trends. In contrast, older people usually use mobile phones in a more practical way. They focus on basic functions such as making calls, sending messages, or using navigation and payment services. Although this difference exists, the gap is gradually narrowing as more older people become familiar with smartphones.

2. What positive and negative impact do mobile phones have on friendship?

Mobile phones have a positive impact on friendship by making communication more convenient and frequent. Friends can stay in touch easily regardless of distance, which helps maintain relationships over time. However, there are also negative effects. Over-reliance on mobile phones may reduce face-to-face communication, leading to shallow interactions. In some cases, misunderstandings can also arise from messages that lack tone or emotional context.

3. Is it a waste of time to take pictures with mobile phones?

I do not think taking pictures with mobile phones is a waste of time in most cases. Photos help people record important moments and preserve memories, which can be meaningful in the long run. However, if people focus too much on taking pictures instead of enjoying the moment itself, it may become unnecessary or even distracting. Therefore, the value depends on how and why people use their phones to take photos.

4. Do you think it is necessary to have laws on the use of mobile phones?

Yes, I believe it is necessary to have laws regulating the use of mobile phones in certain situations. For example, using mobile phones while driving can cause serious accidents and should be strictly controlled by law. Additionally, regulations in public places such as schools or hospitals help maintain order and safety. Reasonable laws do not limit freedom but instead protect both individuals and society as a whole.

自行车/摩托车/汽车旅行

Part 2

Describe a bicycle/motorcycle/car trip you would like to go

You should say:

who you would like to go with

Where you would like to go

When you would like to go

And explain why you would like to go by bicycle/motorcycle/car

Answer

I would like to describe a car trip that I would really like to take in the future. I hope to go with two close friends, because traveling together would make the journey more relaxing and enjoyable.

The place I would like to visit is a coastal city, where we can enjoy the sea, fresh air, and local food. I would prefer to go there during a long holiday, such as a national holiday, so we would not feel rushed.

I would like to travel by car mainly because it offers flexibility. We could decide our own schedule, stop whenever we want, and explore small towns along the way. In addition, a car journey allows us to enjoy the scenery and have meaningful conversations, which makes the trip more memorable.

Part 3

1. Which form of vehicle is more popular in your country, bikes, cars or motorcycles?

In my country, cars are currently the most popular form of transportation, especially in urban areas. Many families consider owning a car a symbol of convenience and improved living standards. Bikes are still commonly used for short-distance travel, particularly among students and elderly people. Motorcycles are less popular in large cities due to safety concerns and traffic regulations. Overall, the choice of vehicle is closely related to income level, lifestyle, and local transportation policies.

2. Do you think air pollution comes mostly from mobile vehicles?

Mobile vehicles are indeed a major source of air pollution, particularly in large cities where traffic volume is high. Exhaust emissions from cars and buses contribute significantly to poor air quality. However, I do not think they are the only cause. Industrial production, power plants, and construction activities also play an important role. Therefore, while controlling vehicle emissions is necessary, a comprehensive approach is required to effectively reduce air pollution.

3. Do you think people need to change the way of transportation drastically to protect the environment?

I do not think people need to change their transportation habits drastically in a short period of time. Sudden changes may cause inconvenience and even social problems. Instead, a gradual transition would be more realistic. Encouraging public transport, promoting electric vehicles, and improving cycling infrastructure can all help reduce environmental damage. Small but consistent changes in daily transportation choices can make a significant difference in the long run.

4. How are the transportation systems in urban areas and rural areas different?

Transportation systems in urban areas are usually more developed and diverse. Cities often have subways, buses, taxis, and ride-sharing services, which provide residents with multiple travel options.

In contrast, rural areas tend to rely more on private vehicles or limited bus services. Due to lower population density, public transportation is less frequent and less convenient. This difference reflects the unequal distribution of resources and infrastructure between urban and rural areas.

Part 2

Describe something important that has been kept in your family for a long time

You should say:

What it is

When your family had it

How your family got it

And explain why it is important to your family

Answer

I would like to describe an old wristwatch that has been kept in my family for many years. It originally belonged to my grandfather and has been passed down through generations.

My family has had this watch for more than fifty years. My grandfather received it as a gift after he started his first stable job, which made it meaningful even at that time.

Over the years, the watch has been carefully kept and later given to my father. Although it is no longer used for daily timekeeping, it represents responsibility, hard work, and family values. That is why it remains an important symbol for my family.

Part 3

1. What things do families keep for a long time?

Families usually keep items that carry emotional or historical value. These often include photographs, letters, jewelry, or objects passed down from older generations. Such items are preserved not because of their material worth, but because they represent memories, family history, and shared experiences. Keeping these objects helps family members feel connected to their roots and ancestors.

2. What's the difference between things valued by people in the past and today?

In the past, people tended to value practical and durable items, such as tools, furniture, or handmade objects. These items were often expensive or difficult to replace, so they were treated with great care. Today, people place more value on convenience, technology, and personal enjoyment. Digital devices and experiences are often considered more important than physical possessions. This shift reflects changes in lifestyle and economic conditions.

3. What kinds of things are kept in museums?

Museums usually keep items that have historical, cultural, or artistic significance. These include ancient tools, traditional clothing, artworks, and historical documents. By preserving these objects, museums help protect cultural heritage and provide educational value to the public. Visitors can learn about different periods of history and understand how societies have developed over time.

4. What's the influence of technology on museums?

Technology has greatly influenced museums by making exhibitions more interactive and accessible. Digital displays, virtual tours, and audio guides help visitors understand exhibits more easily.

In addition, technology allows museums to reach a wider audience online. People can explore collections without being physically present, which increases public interest and educational impact. However, museums still need to balance technology with the authenticity of physical exhibits.

Part 2

Describe a time when you gave advice to others.

You should say:

when it was

who you gave the advice to what the advice was and explain why you gave the advice.

Answer

I would like to talk about a time when I gave advice to a close friend about his career choice. This happened about two years ago when he was feeling confused about whether to change his job.

The advice was given during a long conversation we had at a café after work. He was unhappy with his current position but was afraid of taking risks.

I suggested that he carefully evaluate his long-term goals instead of focusing only on short-term stability. I also advised him to improve his skills before making any major decision. I gave this advice because I believed he needed a clearer direction rather than emotional comfort.

Part 3

1. Is it good to ask advice from strangers online?

Asking advice from strangers online can be helpful in certain situations, especially when people need different perspectives. Online platforms allow individuals to receive opinions from people with diverse backgrounds and experiences. However, there are also risks. Strangers may not fully understand the situation, and some advice may be unreliable or even misleading. Therefore, online advice should be treated as a reference rather than a final decision-making guide.

2. What are the personalities of people whose job is to give advice to others?

People whose job involves giving advice usually need to be patient and empathetic. They must be able to listen carefully and understand others' problems without judgment. In addition, they are often calm and responsible, because their advice can have a significant impact on other people's lives. Good communication skills and emotional stability are also important traits for professionals in advisory roles.

3. What are the problems if you ask too many people for advice?

Asking too many people for advice can lead to confusion and hesitation. Different people often give conflicting opinions, which makes it difficult to make a clear decision. Moreover, relying too much on others' advice may reduce a person's confidence and independence. Instead of trusting their own judgment, they may constantly seek approval, which can slow down the decision-making process.

4. Should people prepare before giving advice?

Yes, people should prepare before giving advice, especially in serious matters. Preparation helps ensure that the advice is thoughtful and responsible rather than emotional or impulsive. By understanding the situation clearly and considering possible consequences, advisers can provide more useful and practical suggestions. This also shows respect for the person seeking advice.
